As part of our series of free educational webinars, we are delighted to announce our next webinar featuring Dr John P. Sullivan, a Sport Scientist and Clinical Sport Psychologist with over twenty years of clinical and scholarly experience. For the past 16 years he has worked with the same team in the National Football League (NFL) coordinating clinical care and sport science. Dr. Sullivan's experience also includes such work within the National Basketball Association, Major League Soccer, English Premier League, Premier Rugby League, Australian Football League and Olympic national teams. He is an expert consultant for the military and law enforcement in regards to both welfare and performance needs. He is also a visiting scholar/sport scientist at the Queensland Academy of Sport (QAS) in Brisbane, Australia and serves as an Instructor/Supervisor for Brown University Medical School Sports Medicine Fellowship. Dr. Sullivan provides consultation to the NFL office, the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA) on issues related to well-being and performance, and is a member of several brain health advisement groups. Dr. Sullivan is a national and international practitioner-researcher who conducts central nervous system (CNS) measurement/assessment, talent selection, recovery training, and concussion assessment/rehabilitation. He has established expertise with psychophysiological profiling and developing cognitive abilities (e.g., decision making, complex reaction time, and read-and-react abilities) of elite performers. You can find out more from our recent blog A healthy brain is crucial to performance. Don't miss this great opportunity to learn from the best and join our webinar which will be chaired Dr Cian O'Neill, Head of Sport, Leisure, & Childhood Studies at Cork Institute of Technology.
